John William Wood

Private (Pte) 2177 John William Wood enlisted in the 39th Infantry Battalion in the 10th Infantry Brigade of the 3rd Australian Division in Ballarat on 15 May 1916. He embarked overseas on 25 September and disembarked in Plymouth on 11 November, where he joined the 10th (Brigade) Training Battalion at Hurdcott Camp.

He departed England on 20 December and disembarked in France the next day, where he was subsequently taken on strength of the 39th Battalion, in the field at Armentieres, on 15 January 1917, one of 43 reinforcements received that day.

The battalion moved to the rear area around La Creche in early March 1917 and spent the next few weeks training, before they re-entered the line, in the L'Epinette sector, from 8-16 April.

The battalion then entered the front line at Ploegsteert Wood, Belgium from 28 April 1917, where they came under heavy German artillery fire in the ensuing days, including gas shells, and repelled several large German raiding parties, for the loss of 14 killed and 63 wounded, one of whom was Pte Wood, who sustained multiple shrapnel wounds to his scalp, left shoulder and back on 30 April.

He was initially treated at the 2^{nd} Australian Casualty Clearing Station from 1-7 May, then at the 3^{rd} Canadian General Hospital at Boulogne from 7-10 May, when he was transferred to England and admitted to the 3^{rd} London General Hospital from 10 May -26 July 1917.

He never fully recovered from his wounds and, after a period of convalescence at Weymouth, he boarded a ship for return to Australia on 27 September.

Private 2177 John William Wood disembarked in Melbourne on 18 November, where he was medically discharged from the AIF on 24 December 1917.
