Intervarsity (1913)

Degree MB BS (1915)

Background

Coinciding with the Centenary of Anzacs our incentive behind the series of biographical publications is the Adelaide University Football and Cricket Club's desire to honour our players who served in the Great War (1914 - 1918). These brave men put on hold their academic, professional and sporting careers for King and Country in the name of peace and freedom. The AUFC/AUCC WW1 Memorial Committee is endeavouring to identify every one of our players who served and prepare life stories on all. This is to ensure their sacrifices and further contributions to society will be recognised by future generations.

On Anzac Day 2015, the Centenary of the Gallipoli landing, a memorial plaque was unveiled on the Adelaide University Oval Pavilion and this was followed by the erection of a picket fence between the pavilion and the scoreboard with each picket bearing a plaque with the name of an AUFC/AUCC player who served.

The following documentation relates to the life of Patrick William Rice. It is compilation of information and photographs collected from a variety of historical sources.

RICE Patrick William

MB BS DRCOG

1889 - 1952

Patrick William Rice was born in Morgan, SA on the 18th May 1889, third son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Rice of Cockburn. He was educated at the Moonta Public School and the Christian Brothers College, Adelaide. He completed an apprenticeship in pharmacy at Main and Sons Dispensary and while doing this decided to enroll in medicine which initiated a brilliant academic career at the University of Adelaide, during which he topped every year of his course and obtained the Elder Prize, Dr. Davies Thomas Scholarship (twice) and the Everard Scholarship graduating in 1915. After graduating he worked for the next three years on the staff of 7 AGH (Keswick), first as pathologist and bacteriologist, and then in the orthopaedics and x-ray departments. He married Ruby Dunleavy Hill, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Hill, of Parkside, in September 1916.

Rice was commissioned in the AAMC in August 1918 and joined the ANMEF. He was 29 years, 5ft 6ins tall, and weighed 147lbs, of fair complexion, blue eyes and brown hair. His wife was named as his next of kin care of J J Rice of Mills Terrace, North Adelaide or his permanent address of 12 Victoria Avenue, Hyde Park South Australia. Rice sailed for Rabaul in October and in December he was posted to Kavieng in New Ireland. He was declared medically unfit in May 1919, and returned to Australia to the 2 MD on the 14th June 1919 and then to the 4 MD Adelaide, with his appointment terminated on the 1st September 1919. He was issued with the British War Medal and the Victory Medal.

After the war Rice entered general practice at Torrensville, but soon established a reputation as a gynaecologist. He went to England in 1935 and sat for and topped the examination for the Diploma of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists. He acquired a large practice which he carried on until his death. Rice and his wife were prominent at Rostrevor and Loreto College's functions as committee and in executive positions. He lived on Portrush Road, Tusmore. Rice was a well-known figure in the sporting world; he was surgeon to the SA Trotting Club for many years. As a joint organiser each year of the Anzac trotting meeting, he was largely responsible for raising large sums of money for the Soldiers' Distress Fund. Patrick William Rice, died at Calvary Hospital, on the 7th March 1952. He was survived by his daughter Therese and son, Dr Laurence Rice.

Early Life

Patrick William "Bill" Rice was born on the 18th of May 1889 at Morgan, SA, the son of James Rice and Annie Rice (Née Meaney). James Rice was with the Railways for many years.

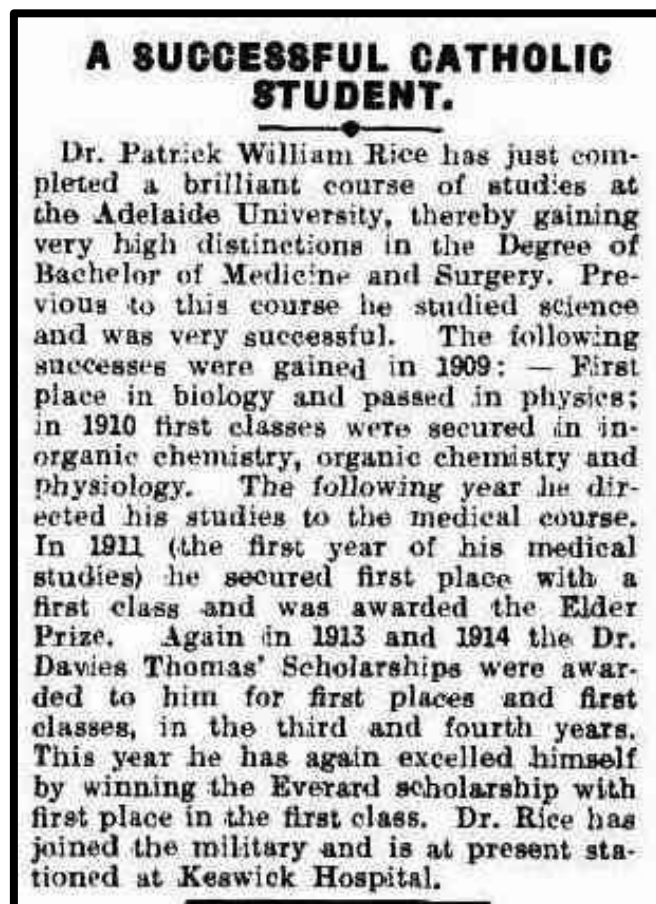

Schooling

Bill attended Moonta Public School where he passed his Primary Examinations in 1903, Junior Examinations in 1905 and Senior Examinations in 1906.

Bill then did an apprenticeship with Main and Sons' Dispensary. In 1909, Bill was awarded a scholarship to attend Adelaide University and study science.

Adelaide University

Bill commenced studying science at Adelaide University in 1909 and in 1910, he secured top place in physiology, inorganic chemistry and biology. Bill transferred from science to medicine in 1911. He graduated MB BS (First Class) in 1915 and was registered as a medical practitioner in October 1915.

University Sport

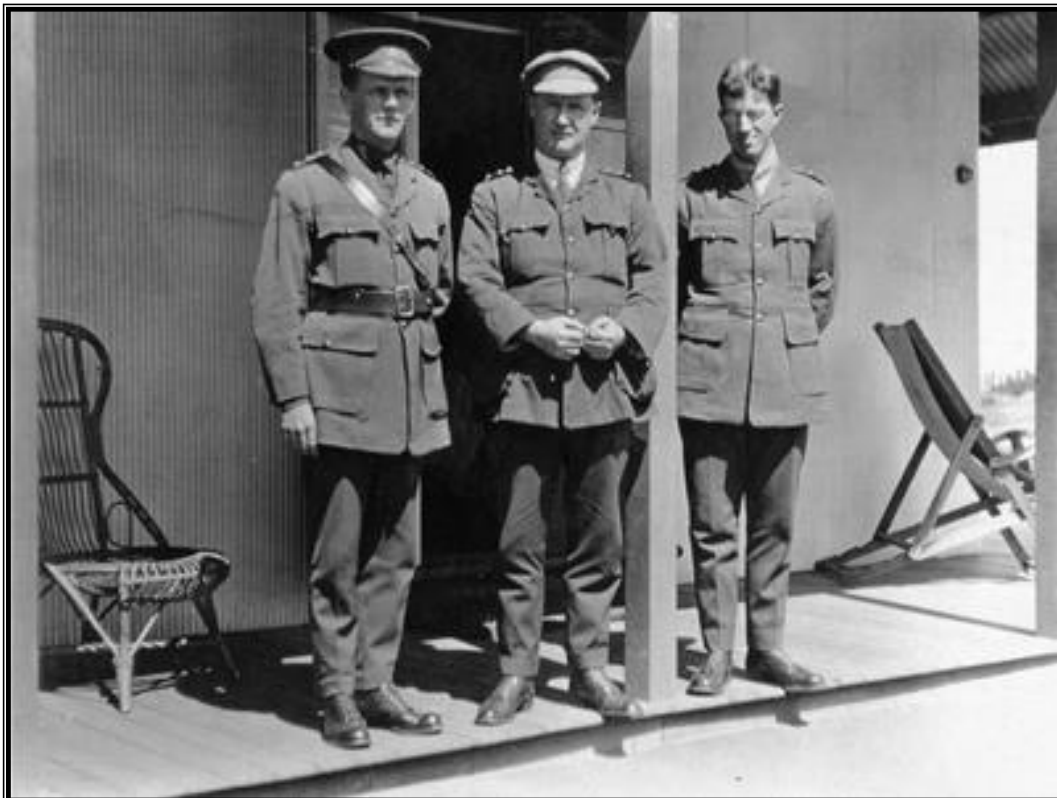

Football

Bill played football for Adelaide University in the Amateur League in 1913 and represented the University at the 1913 Intervarsity. Bill also played for West Torrens in the SANFL in 1913.

World War I

On the 30th of September 1915 Bill joined the Australian Army Medical Corps and spent three years on the staff of the 7th Australian General Hospital at Keswick, SA. In addition to work at the hospital, Bill travelled to country locations to examine and recruit soldiers in 1916.

(Labelled as approx 1919 however based on service records it is likely to be pre-March 1918)

On the 16th of September 1916, Bill married Ruby Dunleavey Hill.

RICE—HILL.—On the 16th September, at St. Paul's Retreat, Glen Osmond, by Chaplain-Capt. Chester, Patrick William Rice, M.B.B.S., third son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Rice, of North Adelaide, to Ruby Dunleavey, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Hill, of Parkside.

Bill enlisted on the 30th of August 1918 and served in Australian Naval and Military Expeditionary Force. His wife Ruby was listed as his next-of-kin. The couple were living at Mill Terrace, North Adelaide, SA.

He served with the Australian Naval and Military Expeditionary Force at Rabaul on the island of New Britain, Papua New Guinea, about 60 kilometres to the east of the island of New Guinea. Unfortunately, Bill became ill and returned to Australia medically unfit and his appointment was terminated on the 1st of September 1919.

Career and Family Life

In late 1919 Bill returned to civilian life and commenced to practice at 137 Henley Beach Road, Torrensville.

DR. P. W. RICE.

Dr. Patrick William Rice, who has recently returned from Rabaul, where he was pathologist and bacteriologist with the Australian Naval and Military Forces, has begun the practice of his profession at 137 Henley Beach Road, Torrensville. Dr. Rice had a most brilliant and rarely excelled academical career at the Adelaide University, where he began the science course, and obtained first place on list in biology, physiology, and organic chemistry, and first class in inorganic chemistry. He then transferred to the medical school, in which he obtained first place on the list and first class in each of the five years he was a student there; in addition he won the Elder Prize, the Dr. Davies Thomas Scholarship twice, and the Everard Scholarship. For some time after taking his degree he was house surgeon at the Adelaide Hospital, and in September, 1915, he was appointed to the staff of No. 7 A.G.H. Keswick, with the rank of captain, as resident medical officer, pathologist, and bacteriologist. He was subsequently appointed in that sphere with the Expeditionary Forces in the North-West Pacific Islands. Since his return he has received his majority. Dr. Rice, who is a very popular man, with a wealth of knowledge and experience to support him, is a staunch Catholic and a member of the Queen of Angels' Branch of the H.A.C.B.S., and the presence of a Catholic doctor of his ability in such a large and progressive parish and district will be very welcome to the people. We trust that Dr. Rice will establish a large and prosperous practice, and that his popularity, zeal, and ability will continue.

On the 3rd of November 1920, Bill and Ruby's daughter, Therese Marie was born at Quambi Hospital, South Tce., Adelaide. In January 1921 the Rice's were living at Beach Road Torrensville and they registered a 11.9 Morris Crowley with a blue body and upholstery to match.

In 1925 the couple's son Lawrence John Rice was born.

During the 1920s, Bill's interest included horse racing (Trotting) and the Thebarton Catholic Tennis Club. He was also a vice-president of the South Australian Handball Association.

Bill was in practice in partnership with C.T. Benson at Henley Beach Road, Mile End. The partnership was dissolved on the 12th of November 1928. Bill continued to practice at the above address as a sole practitioner.

In mid-1929 the Rice's had a holiday trip to Honolulu and the eastern states, they returned to Adelaide in mid-June.

By May 1930, Bill was practising at Lister House, 198 North Terrace, Adelaide.

In May 1933, Bill presented the Rice Shield to the winning house of the Christian Brother's College annual sports. Bill had also donated a Cup for use by the South Australian Trotting Association.

In early 1935, Bill and his family went to England so that Bill could undertake post-graduate studies. He received a diploma for obstetrics and gynaecology in London, gaining top marks in a field of 31. He was working at the University College Hospital, London. While in London the Rice's lived at Clive Court, Maida Vale, W9. They commenced the return journey on the 21st of December 1935 onboard the Oranto.

Mrs P.W. Rice – October 1937

Therese Rice passed her leaving Honours in 1938 under private tuition. She went on to study at Adelaide University and gained her Bachelor of Arts in 1942 and her Master of Arts in 1947.

In early 1938 Ruby and Therese travelled to Colombo for a holiday. By 1939 the Rice's were living at 50 Portrush Road, Tusmore Gardens and Bill was the honorary surgeon to the South Australian Trotting Club. In March 1939 Ruby and Therese (Tess) returned to Adelaide after a visit to California.

Bill gave a banquet for the Rostrevor College XVIII in September 1942 and he was recognised at the 1944 Rostrevor College Break-Up for his kindness to the Brothers and boys of the College.

In August 1947 after completing her Master of Arts at Adelaide University, Therese left for Switzerland to work on her doctorate.

To Study In Paris

MISS Therese M. Rice, of Tusmore, has been awarded a scholarship by the French Government, and expects to leave for Paris in February to study for her Doctorate of Letters. Miss Rice gained her degree of Master of Arts last month by a thesis on French poetry.

The scholarship, which is for one year, is one of a few offered by the French Government for Australian students to study abroad.

A pupil of Loreto Convent for her early education, Miss Rice was afterwards educated privately. In 1942, at the age of 22 years, she gained her Honors BA degree and was awarded a post-graduate scholarship for two years. For two years she has been doing tutorial work in the French department at the Adelaide University.

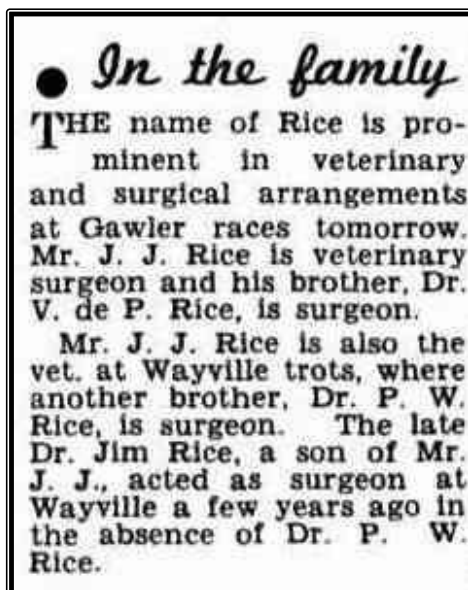

During the war Miss Rice was engaged in important confidential work for the Australian Army here and later in Melbourne. She is the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Rice.

Miss Rice

Lawrence John Rice attended Christian Brother's College, Rostrevor College and then Adelaide University where he studied medicine and gained his MB BS in 1948. On the 13th of May 1950, Lawrence John Rice married Maureen Catherine Lucey, the daughter of Mr J Lucey, of Millswood Estate and the late Mrs Lucey at Rostrevor College Chapel.

In August 1950 the following article highlighted the Rice family's interest in trotting.

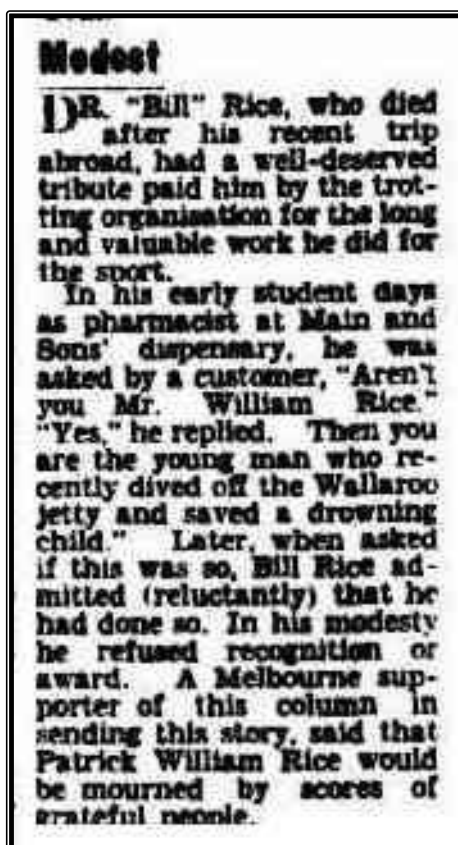

In 1950 Therese, returned to Australia after studying at the Sorbonne in France and took up a position lecturing in French studies at Adelaide University.

On the 18th of November 1951 (aged 62), Bill and Therese arrived at Southampton, England onboard the P&O ship Himalaya.

Death

Patrick William (Bill) Rice passed away (suddenly) on the 7th of March 1952 at Calvary Hospital Adelaide, SA, aged 63. When Bill passed away, he was described as having recently returned from an overseas tour of the UK and the continent. He was buried at Centennial Park, Adelaide.

Great Doctor: Noble Christian

THE LATE DR. P. W. RICE

THE Catholic community in South Australia suffered a very severe loss last Friday in the death of Dr. Patrick William Rice, of Portrush Road, Tasmore.

On Saturday morning His Grace the Archbishop presided at the Requiem Mass, celebrated in Calvary Hospital chapel by Rev. L. O'Neill, S.J. The Sisters and nurses of Calvary were present, as well as a large body of friends and fellow professional men, both Catholic and non-Catholic. A number of Priests and Brothers were also present.

After Mass His Grace pronounced the final absolution.

A guard of honor was formed from the chapel door to the hearse by the Sisters and nurses of the hospital. A large cortege accompanied the mortal remains of Dr. Rice to Centennial Park Cemetery, where the burial service was read by Rev. R. Parrelly, P.P.

ONE OF LARGE FAMILY

Dr. Rice was born at Morgan 63 years ago, being the third of the twelve children of the late James Joseph and Annie Teresa Rice. Owing to the nature of his father's work in the South Australian Railways, which took the Rice family to many different parts of the State, most of Dr. Rice's primary education, and all of his secondary school education, was received at State schools. The sterling quality of his Catholicity thus emphasises what true Catholic parents and a truly Catholic home can do, even without the aid of Catholic schools when these are not available.

BRILLIANT ACADEMIC COURSE

Having gained his senior certificate from the Moonta Continuation School, Dr. Rice came to Adelaide and completed a full pharmaceutical course before commencing his medical studies at the Adelaide University. He graduated from the University in 1915, having topped every year of his course and obtained the Elder Prize, Dr. Davies Thomas Scholarship (twice), and the Everard Scholarship.

He then joined the army, and subsequently served as a medical officer with the Australian Expeditionary Force to New Guinea.

NOBLE CHARACTER

One of Adelaide's leading gynaecologists and surgeons, Dr. Rice was as remarkable for his true Christian charity and humility as for his exceptional ability in his profession.

One of the honors that came to Dr. Rice in an abundantly honored life was to be created a Serving Brother of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem. That honor was awarded in recognition of many years of devoted service.

Dr. Rice had just returned from an overseas tour, two of the high-lights of which were a visit to Lourdes and an audience with the Holy Father.

OF WHICH WERE A VISIT TO LOURDES AND AN AUDIENCE WITH THE HOLY FATHER.

It was appropriate that he should have died at Calvary Hospital, where so much of his splendid work had been done. He was conscious at the end and was fortified with the rites of the Church.

Dr. Rice was the first President of the Guild of St. Luke, and his pallbearers were fellow members of the Guild.

He is survived by one son, Dr. Lawrence Rice, one daughter, Miss Teresa Rice, and nine brothers and sisters.

Dr. Rice and Calvary Hospital

(The following paragraphs express the esteem in which Dr. Rice was held in Adelaide's one Catholic hospital.—Ed.)

WHEN, on Friday morning last, the Angel of Death, with unexpected swiftness, claimed the gentle soul of Dr. Patrick William Rice, a wave of poignant sorrow filled the hearts of those associated with this "Beloved Physician," and in an especial way, the doctors, Sisters and nurses of the Calvary Hospital. With that swift call to eternity ended a life of devoted service, untiring effort, and complete self-sacrifice towards the sick. Dr. Rice gave of his best to all, generously, constantly, and with a graciousness that was an outstanding characteristic.

Of a quiet, humble and unassuming nature, yet withal a man of brilliant professional attainments and ability, nature, yet withal a man of brilliant professional attainments and ability, the name of Dr. Patrick W. Rice will live long in the memory of those whose privilege it was to be associated with him in his life's work for the sick. It was particularly at the Calvary Hospital that the scope of his skill as a gynaecologist and obstetrician was most widely known and availed of. To be of the number of those allied with Dr. Rice in the nursing of the sick and, in particular, the care of the mothers and their infants, was considered an honor and a privilege. True to the highest ideals of his Catholic Faith, to those of his honored profession, of which Dr. Rice was so eminent and outstanding a member, his example will ever be an inspiration down the years to his colleagues, and to the rising generation of medicos. As the first to hold office as Master of the Catholic Medical Guild of St. Luke, Dr. Rice was a guiding force in the beginnings and formation of that now flourishing guild of Catholic doctors in South Australia.

The early years of his medical career were spent in general practice, which brought him into contact mainly with those of the humbler stations of life, and down the years Dr. Rice continued to hold their affection and esteem, as only one of his kindly and unpretentious manner could. To the aged sick, to youth afflicted, and most of all, to motherhood and to the infants, Dr. Rice was the kindly, wise and understanding physician, extending to each the same solicitude, being as it were "all things to all men." As many can testify, not only physical care, but spiritual advice was extended as needed, for Dr. Rice, being one of a large and outstanding Catholic family, received in that happy home the gift of a rich, practical Faith, which placed God and the things of God before all else.

As the blue-veiled Sisters and the nurses knelt in the hospital chapel to pay their last respects to one who by his noble example of devotion to the sick, had been their inspiration, they realised that his familiar figure would walk the hospital no more; the skilful hands that had brought, under God, healing and comfort to so many afflicted, were now folded in death. Of Dr. Rice we may truly say, "The just shall live in everlasting remembrance," for that name will ever be held in benediction by the Little Company of Mary, whilst not only the present but future generations of the Congregation will ask, in their daily prayers, that God will grant eternal rest to the soul of their beloved friend and benefactor, Dr. Patrick William Rice. R.I.P.

Death Of Dr. P. W. Rice

Dr. Patrick William Rice 61, of Portrush road Tusmore, one of Adelaide's leading gynaecologists, died at Calvary Hospital.

A well-known figure in the sporting world, he was surgeon to the SA Trotting Club for many years.

He is survived by one son, Dr. Laurence Rice, and one daughter, Miss Teresa Rice.

Letter to the Editor

THE LATE DR. RICE

DEAR Sir,—I wish to pay tribute to the late Dr. Patrick William Rice, whose death on Friday last came as such a shock to the community of the community of Adelaide, particularly the Catholic section.

The late doctor was noted for his placid temperament and loving disposition, and many considered him the ideal family physician. He ranked with the highest of his profession, and through a brotherly and sympathetic understanding helped many through periods of worry and indecision.

The name "Paddy Rice" was a household word in many homes throughout this city, and in these homes his mere presence infused confidence and his skilful hands imparted much needed relief. Catholics knew him for his practical and sincere approach to their problems, his loving and kindly nature being always most evident.

My own family and that of my parents had for many years benefited from and enjoyed his faithful service, and I am certain there are many others with similar experience. The Catholics of this city have certainly lost one of their most outstanding and illustrious characters. May the Sacred Heart of Jesus grant him peace and have mercy on his soul.

JACK DOHERTY.

6 Doonoon Ave., Hazelwood Park,
18/3/52.

Family Legacy

In 1961, Therese Marie Rice bequeathed the whole of her residuary estate to the University of Adelaide to establish a scholarship to be known as "The P. W. Rice Scholarship" in memory of her late father.

These postgraduate research scholarship and travel awards are available for female students (Masters by Research or PhD) currently enrolled in a research degree at the University of Adelaide, having gained First Class Honours in one of the following disciplines: Classics, Latin, Ancient Greek, Linguistics, French Studies, German Studies, Spanish Studies or Medieval English language taught in the university.
