Edgar Charles Lee

Private (Pte) 4849 Edgar Charles Lee enlisted in the 16th Infantry Battalion at Blackboy Hill on 18 December 1915. He embarked overseas on 1 April 1916 and disembarked in Egypt on 28 April, where he joined the 4th (Brigade) Training Battalion.

He departed Egypt on 7 June and landed in France on 14 June, where he was later transferred and taken on strength of the 48th Infantry Battalion in the 12th Infantry Brigade of the 4th Australian Division at Bertaucourt les Dames on 18 July 1916.

The 48th Battalion moved into the front line at Pozieres on the night of 5 August and it was here that Pte Lee sustained a gunshot wound to his head that resulted in a fractured skull, on 6 August.

Australian soldiers walk past a line of trenches excavated during the advance on Pozieres, 1 August 1916.

German shellfire is falling in the distance.

He was evacuated to the 4th General Hospital at Camiers on 8 August, then transferred to England on 2 September, where he was admitted to the Duston War Hospital in Northampton from 2 September – 22 November, when he was granted leave until 7 December 1916.

Pte Lee was granted further leave from 5-20 January 1917 but was still suffering from pains in his head so he was returned to Australia on 13 February. He disembarked in Fremantle on 10 April and later travelled to Melbourne, at his own request to be near family, in early June.

He disembarked in Melbourne on 9 June, where he was medically discharged from the AIF on 23 July 1917

He obviously continued to suffer and was admitted to Geelong Hospital at some stage, where he finally succumbed to complications from his wounds on 28 April 1919.

Private 4849 Edgar Charles Lee was subsequently buried at Geelong Eastern Cemetery.
